The announcement that Premier Combes would speak caused every seat on the floor and in the galleries to be occupied. The Premier argued that the suppression of the congregations was not a suppression of the liberty of teaching. The Biate had the right to regulate public instruction; to look into its character, and forbid the teaching of dootrines contrary to republican principles. This was what the State was doing.

The Premier then said that he had allowed the fable that he had been himself a member of a congregation to pass un-

LONDON, Mar. 18.—The Conservatives have suffered a crushing reverse in the Ryc division of Sussex, where a bye-election was held yesterday for a successo. tion was held yesterday for a successor to A, M. Brookfield, Conservative, who has been appointed British consul at Montevideo. The result was the return of F. Hutchinson, Liberal, by a majority of L34 over Edward Boyle, Conservative. Mr. Hutchinson, who appealed to the electors as a critic of the government's whole policy, obtained over 2,000 more votes than he did in 1990, when he opposed Mr. Brookfield, while the Conservative vote fell off about 1,000. The result of the election at The Rys has caused great satisfaction to the members of the opposition in Parlament, this being the first gain of an important seat since the Liberals took up a definite attitude in the army controversy. There was much talk in the lobby of the House of Commons to-day about the "moral" effect this and the Woolwich reverse would have on the government. It is safe, however, to say that the situation, so far as the government programme is concerned, will not be changed. M. Brookfield, Conservative, who NEWCASTLE, PA., March 18.—Joh NEWCASTLE, PA., March 18.—John Cenkinger, of Butler Avenue, a well-known man of this city, died in a hospital here to-day from a mortal wound received a few minutes before at the hands of George Merkle, proprietor of a hotel at Darlington, Beaver county. The shooting occurred at the apartments of Mrs. Eva Rumberger, in the second-story of the Genkinger block, in Apple Alley, and is supposed to have been the result of jealousy. Merkle was arrested with his smoking revolver yet in his hand, before he left Mrs. Rumberger's apartments, by Officer Henry Bell, who arrived almost immediately on the scene. Genkinger was then lying on a settee and pointed out Merkle as the man who shot him. Merkle fired four shots, only one of which took effect.

/Immediately after the shooting Mrs. Rumberger was examined by Mayor Jackson and Coroner Porter, and told the story of the shooting. She said Merkle was in her apartments when Genkinger appeared and asked her for a diamond pin he had leat her yesterday. She aad Jenkinger, of Butler Avenue, a well-

The Times-Dispatch Bureau, No. 1417 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., March 18th. Representative Jones, of the First District, said to-day he was glad the re-districting bill had falled to pass the General Assembly.

I could not see why my in which conditions were the same should be left undisturbed. The Seventh Dis-trict is the size of the First, yet it was not proposed to make any changes there. The Ninth District is about as large as the Second, yet the Second was to be greatly reduced in size, while the Ninth was to be absolutely unchanged. But the eastern section of North Carolina claimed the governorship. He declined to do anything that would put in jeopardy the success of the Democrats, or that would prevent the Anglo-Saxon race from again controlling his State. One of the leading papers of the State declared a few days ago in speaking of Colonel Cuningham for Governor that he would make a good executive and that there was a large number of the best people of the party rady, to rally to his support. He is the largest tobacco grower in the United States, and assover 80 per cent, of the votes cast in North Carolina are cast by the agricultural classes, and the further fact that he is probably the most popular man among the farmers of the State and popular amoong all classes, there is little doubt that he will be nominated.

Mr. Money explained at the outset of his remarks that if he could secure unanimous consent for leave to print, he would not take up the time of the Senate. The sentiment of the Senate seemed to be that remarks not delivered should not be spread on the record. Roosevelt was not the President of America, but the "President of the black beir" At times he was closely interrogated by Messrs. Forsker and Spooner.

It was the Inherent and constitutional right of a great community, said Mr. Money, to have their mall handled regularly. DEATH OF MR. REED.

After an illness of several months with consumption, Mr. James H. Reed passed away at his home, No, 501 East Seventh Street, yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clook, aged twenty-one years.

For several months, owing to the destitute condition of the family and their entire worthiness, kind hearted people have been helping the sick man and his he said, and I thank God that there is.

The projudice against the negro, he asserted, is not local, but prompted by an universal, world-wide sentiment. Answering Mr. Foraker, he said that these recent appointments have revived the race question and while the people of the South had heretofore tolerated negro office-holders they did not want any more of them.

WHITE MAN'S COUNTRY.

"This is a white man's country and Roed was employed by the Passenger and Power Company, and his fellow employes have alided him very much.

WHITE MAN'S COUNTRY.

"This is a white man's country and a white man's government," said he. "It has been carved out of the widerness and conquered from the Indian not for the African, but for the white man."

Mr. Foraker asked Mr. Money if his objection to colored people holding office extended to all offices of all kinds, and also whether it would include the enlistment of colored men in tre army to defend the flag and the Constitution. The reply was that he had no particular objection to colored men serving in the army, but declared that it would be better if no colored man held any official proposition to get up a big entertainment at Leader Hall for the benefit of the misposition whatever.
"Would you disfranchise the negro?"
asked Mr. Foraker, "And if so should sion. Such an entertainment as that proposed has been spoken of by many

"Is it the iden," asked Mr. Spooner,

Mr. Money replied that there was no

Mr. Spooner remarked that the President of the United States could not defer to the demands of any section, that the rights of citizenship should be surrendered. He would show himself unfit to hold office, and quite willing to violate his cath as President.

TREMENDOUS MISTAKE.

Mr. Foraker commented upon Mr. Money's statements as being most remarkable because of their far-reaching consequences.

Mr. Money expressed the conviction that the amendment to the Constitution which made negroes voters was a tremendous mistake and he said a vast number of the people of the North entertained the same view. He said there had been no objection in the South to a colored man's working and not one had been killed for so doing, as had been the case in Illinois. The feeling in the South, was that if a white man did not think himself socially better than the negro he was not half as good.

In the matter of these appointments, Mr. Money said the President should consider conditions in the South, Appointing negroes to office in the South was most obnoxious and repugnant to that section. It was impossible, he declared, for any one raised north of Mason and Dixon's line to know anything about the negro, He concluded by saying that there had been no intention of creating any disturbance whatever in Indianola, but the idea of holding a public meeting was that it would apprise the postmistress of the wishes of the citizens and that it might the do the president, Mominated by the President.

VINDICATION WILL

upon which the inquiry was based, was on hand. He listened attentively to al the testimony and sometimes asked questions. There was a lack of aggressiveness about him, and when Mr. Keezell mentioned the names of three witnesses furnished him by Dr. Styll, the Newport News physician said he would not ask

News physician said he would not sak that they be summoned.

"Can they throw any light upon this matter?" asked Senator Lyle.

"I don't know," replied Dr. Styll.

"Then why send for them?" asked some other Senator.

They were not sent for.

Mr. Robert Gilliam, Mr. Robert B. Cooke, of Norfolk, and Mr. Julius Straus, of Richmond, members of the Executive Board, testified as to the time and the labor they have given to make this one of the best managed and conducted institutions of its kind in the country. They were all on the aggressive, and there was fire in their remarks. In other language, they seemed to feel that they had been performing a service to their Staic for which they had not only got no credit; but were being, by some people, abused, DR. DRBWRY.

Dr. Drewy, the distinguished superlintendent, received all manner of praise from the directors and from the officers. The charge made by Dr. Styll and by the negro Reese that Dr. Drewy was a sort of Czar of all the Russias was flatly contradicted by the officers. They stated that he was a strict disciplanarian, a man who made every one under him "toe the mark," but that he was a sumane; that tradicted by the officers. They stated that he was a strict disciplanarian, a man who made every one under him "toe the mark," but that he was faumane; that he was homeat; that he was faithful, and that all could go to him and get a fais hearing as to their grievances.

Dr. Drewry was present, and he blushingly and modestly, for he is one of the most modest of men, accepted the pretty little bouquets thrown at him by those who serve with him.

In reference to the alleged immoral conduct of some persons connected with the hospitul it can be stated that these charges were not only not proven, but the testimony submitted made them appear to be absurd.

The negro Reese was shown to be a man who did not appreciate the fact that he held a good position, but so conducted himself that not only Dr. Drewry, but the whole board thought it best that he no longer be connected with the institution.

The committee, after a very prief expected the fact that the committee, after a very prief expected.

The committee, after a very brief executive session decided to exonerate the whole management of the hospital. Mr. Claytor will draw the report, and that means that the vindication of Dr. Drowry and all associated with him will not be made in any uncertain tone.

STRUCK MAIL WAGON

Uncle Sam's Vehicle Shattered by a Street Car This Morning.

Shortly after midnight this morning mail wagon No 22 was smashed by an eastbound street car at Fifth and Main Streets. The windows were shivered and several of the wheels put out of commission. Fortunately, no one was injured. No Hydrophobia.

No Hydrophobla.

T. O. Rocchicoli, Jr., son of a well-known confectioner by the same name, minus the junior, of Seventh and Main Streats, was scratched by a supposed-to-her abid cat last Fridey night, and new he is surfering extremely from the aparently slight wand, although there is little fear of hydrophoble. He is at the Fasteur department of the University of Medicine, undergoing treatment for the prevention of rables as a precaustion simply against any such trouble.

The day after the boy was scratched the hand commenced to swell and loci irritated, as a result of which grave fears that hydrophobla would set is were felt. Last night he was much improved, and the fears are gradually paring away.
